Woman Judge Speaks Tonight in Ardmore

Meeting at Township Building Is Sponsored by Republican Women.

MRS. BROWN TO PRESIDE

Judge Sara M. Soffel, first woman Judge in Pennsylvania, will be the speaker at a meeting which will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Township Building, Ardmore, under the auspices of the Lower Merion-Narberth Council of Republican Women. Mrs. H. Tatnall Brown, Jr., will preside. All men and women are cordially invited.

Judge Soffel will talk on the vitally interesting subject of International Relations.

After graduating with honors from Wellesley College in 1908, she taught English and Botany in the Crafton High School. Later she entered the Pittsburgh Law School, graduating as an honor student of the class. Opening her law office about fifteen years ago, she has been in active practice since, except for a term as Assistant City Solicitor under Mayor Magee. Later she was named head of the Women's and Children's Bureau of the State Department of Labor and Industry.

The committee for the meeting is as follows: Mrs. Morris Shipley, Mrs. Harrie Bell, Mrs. David Patterson, Miss Blanche Meeser, Mrs. Herman Schwartz, Mrs. W. Russell Green, Mrs. H. Wilson Moorhouse, Mrs. Conyers Read, Mrs. Eugene Kuen and Mrs. Robinson Murray.

Mrs. Pinchot to Speak At Narberth Meeting

Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the Republican nominee for Governor, will speak and also give a commentary on the moving pictures which form a record of the trip she and her husband took to the South Seas which will be exhibited at a meeting in Narberth next Thursday.

The meeting, which is sponsored by a large committee of Republican Women, will be held at Elm Hall, Forest Avenue, Narberth, at 2:30 o'clock. A special showing of the pictures for school children will be held at 4 P. M.

One scene shows Mrs. Pinchot in full diving regalia, chopping large pieces from a choice growth of coral at the bottom of the sea. Another shows the former Governor making a haul of big fish such as are to be found only in far-distant waters.

Heads Welfare Drive

Mrs. Fletcher W. Stites has again been appointed the Narberth chairman for the Welfare Federation Campaign which begins on Monday. W. Logan MacCoy, of Overbrook, is the general chairman for the Main Line Division.

To Speak in Borough

On November 6th the Southeastern District Meeting will be held in the Salem Reformed Church in Doylestown. It will be an all day meeting starting at 10 A. M. All members are urged to go and those finding it possible to attend call Mrs. J. W. Darville, Ardmore 538, to arrange for transportation.

A luncheon bridge is being given by the members of the hospitality committee on Wednesday, October 29, in the club room, Elm Hall. Reservations may be made with Mrs. J. E. Burrell, Merion 1404, or any member of the hospitality committee.

Plans are going ahead for the annual Armistice Day banquet sponsored by the Harold D. Speakman Post, American Legion of Narberth, which will be held on Tuesday, November 11, in the Legion room of the Community Building, Windsor Avenue, Narberth.

While the affair is sponsored by the American Legion it is the desire of those in charge to make it a genuine community gathering.

Speakers will include Judge J. Ambler Williams, president judge of Montgomery County, who will come to Narberth immediately after delivering the dedication address of the Susquehanna bridge; Stoney McLinn, noted sports writer of the Evening Public Ledger, and Fletcher W. Stites.

Charles Greyer is the general chairman of the banquet committee and A. Perry Redifer, Jr., is in charge of ticket distribution. Tickets may be procured from any member of the Legion, and will be on sale at the door. They will also be sold by several local merchants.

D. A. R.'s Hear Talk on Work at Crossnore School

A talk on her work among the mountaineers at Crossnore School, North Carolina, was given by Dr. Sloop at the meeting of Dr. Benjamin Rush Chapter, D. A. R., on Monday. The meeting was held in the parlor of the new Methodist Church.

Samples of hand-woven work done at Crossnore were exhibited. An assortment of these articles including linens, bags, pillows, bed spreads and baby things will be displayed for sale at the November meeting.

Mrs. E. C. Town, the chairman on patriotic education, reported on the anual outing for foreign born women at Valley Forge.

Parents Take Back Seat as Children Are Honored

Parents took their places in the background at Monday evening's meeting of the Narberth Parent-Teacher Association at the Narberth School while rows of children filled front seats smiling happily with the thrill that comes to everyone upon reaching the glorious harbor of accomplishment.

These children, forty-one of them, had finished the summer reading course and received certificates. One child from each of the three groups in which the children were divided was presented with a book in recognition of outstanding work. The winners were Anita MacFarland, Billy MacComas and Joe Burta.

The Parent-Teacher Association is very proud of these young readers and most grateful to Miss Mary Church and Mrs. Robert F. Wood for the encouragement and help they gave the boys and girls.

After the children were dismissed Dr. LeRoy A. King, secretary of the Narberth School Board, spoke on the accomplishments and bright future of the Recreation Board. Playground activities were described by Allan B. Wetherall. He mentioned particularly the great popularity of the new tennis courts.

One-Touchdown Victory of Lower Merion Over Haverford Fails to Show Maroon Superiority

Lower Merion's visit to South Ardmore last Saturday, where the Red and Gold cohorts of Haverford High went down in defeat against the Maroon, was highly successful, though not altogether satisfactory. A 7-to-0 victory for Adam's charges puts the victory on the credit side of the ledger sheet, but it does not explain the true strength of the Main Line team of 1930.

As every reader of this story knows, Lower Merion won the crucial struggle of the season against their next-door neighbor by a one-touchdown margin, due to the speed and adroitness of Jim Bradford, a tall, scrappy bit of humanity playing at right end. Bradford covered his man in the proper fashion, according to the defensive tactics of Coach Adam, and intercepted a lateral pass meant for a Haverford halfback in the third quarter of the tight fuss, and sped almost unmolested across the goal line for the only touchdown of the game. To add to the score, and to prove the class of the Maroon ensemble, Jim Turner neatly placed a kick through the uprights and the score was 7-to-0.

The regret of the followers of Lower Merion is that another victory is registered by defensive tactics, rather than because of the offensive strength of their favorite team. The facts, according to our opinion, show that Lower Merion had a superior team and

Wednesday Night Plays Restored by Hedgerow

Since the Hedgerow Theatre has discovered Wednesday night to be a playing night distinctly in popular favor, the company at Rose Valley is restoring it to the body of the acting week when it plays, after an absence of several weeks. Donald Corley's "Limelight" on next Wednesday evening. This play, which presents the soul of a woman so mechanized by the falseness of her desires that she is able to mechanize those about her, will be acted with Kay Roma in the role of the controlling Charmistica, and William Price, Ferd Nofer, Jesse Oser and Marshall Gatchell as her satellites.

Thursday night will mark the return of Bernhardi's long-absent drama, "The Prisoner." This embodiment of the restless soul of a nation expressed through the individual will be given with Jasper Deeter in the role of the prisoner, and Jean Sweidel, Dudley Vaughan, Harry Bellaver and Ferd Nofer in the supporting cast. Another return play will be acted on Saturday night, November 1, when Musselman's satire of the American gangster and his pseudo-idolization "Poker Face" is given with Allyn Joslyn in the title role and Kay Roma as his hard-boiled lover. On Friday night, October 31, the pungent and popular burlesque of by-gone melodramas, "Cast Up by the Sea," so admirably worked out by Virginia Farmer from Stephen Leacock's brief, will be played.

Tonight will see the first performance of the season of "The Prisoner," and tomorrow night's show will be Morley's "Thunder on the Left."

Pennsylvania Can Help a Very Good Deal in Solving America's Liquor Problem

The Prohibition question is apparently being stripped down to its essential factors and hope is increasing that a better situation will ultimately obtain.

It would be a foolish person, however, who would claim that a complete solution will arrive overnight.

Likewise, it would be an equally foolish person who would maintain that no change will ever come and that the present condition must be indefinitely endured, or enjoyed, as the viewpoint may be.

Throughout the nation, in almost every State, the trend is distinctly towards a revision in the existing laws, and in no instance has any "wet" community reversed itself and gone "dry."

THE EVIDENCE IS OVERWHELMING THAT THIS CHANGE OF OPINION HAS BEEN COMPLETELY ONE-SIDED AND THAT MILLIONS OF ERSTWHILE DRY ADHERENTS ARE NOW JOINING IN THE APPEAL FOR A DIFFERENT HANDLING OF THE PERPLEXING SUBJECT.

This does not mean, of course, that this great host of American citizens have altered the convictions to the need of temperance or sobriety in the life of the land, but it can be said, from the facts at hand, that it does mean that they are impressed that the goal which they would like to see attained can NEVER come to pass under the 18th Amendment and its supporting legislation.

SUCH MEN AND WOMEN REALIZE, AFTER ELEVEN YEARS' EXPERIENCE, THAT YOU SIMPLY CANNOT ENFORCE A LAW WHICH LACKS THE REAL CONCEPT AND ESSENCE OF LAW, A FACT WHICH HAS BEEN MADE UNMISTAKABLY PLAIN IN PRETTY NEARLY EVERY CENTURY OF CIVILIZED EXISTENCE.

They have come to know why of all the countries of the earth which have tried Prohibition, only the United States and little Finland continue with the experiment and they behold with disgust and despair the evil and vicious results which accompany this sumptuary endeavor to make a people moral by might, forcing them to "be good" by threats of durance vile, a fine commentary on all the old virtues, a vivid exhibition, indeed, of man's inhumanity to man!

A TEMPERATE NATION ACHIEVED IN ANY MANNER SUCH AS THIS, EVEN IF IT COULD BE DONE, WOULD BE AN INGLORIOUS AND EMPTY TRIUMPH AND WOULD INDUBITABLY LAND THE WHOLE LOT OF US AS SPIRITUAL BANKRUPTS AGAINST THE WALLS OF ETERNITY!

But it cannot be done and we ought to elect to high office those men of good sense and influence who will seek to quickly establish other and better means of carrying on the progress which was so ruthlessly estopped in 1918.

Mr. Hemphill is such a man. He holds no brief for rum. He hoists the herald for True Temperance. He stands with Mr. Morrow in New Jersey and Mr. Roosevelt in New York. No patriot can disregard the insistent demand for real reform in the present situation. For Mr. Pinchot to simply say that he is "dry" and then refuse to explain why he is, or to discuss the subject at all, means that the Pretender is as defective on this issue as he is on his purpose to harass our business organizations into servile submission.

The general fear and distrust of the man will defeat Pinchot, but your protest of his liquor stand will make it check and double-check, and it is urged that you shall do your duty exceedingly well, as no doubt you will.

JOIN THE GROWING LEGION—STEP FORWARD FOR PROGRESS AND REFORM — LET THE BOOTLEGGERS AND GANGSTERS FORM TO THE LEFT —YOU FORM TO THE RIGHT—RIGHT ON FOR HEMPHILL AND HONESTY —TRUTH AND TEMPERANCE IN STATE AND NATION! 'TWILL BE A DAY'S WORK, GOOD CITIZENS, ONE WHICH WILL SERVE AMERICANS WELL IN THE YEARS AHEAD, AND NO QUESTION ABOUT IT!

Chief of Lower Merion's Police Force Has Had Colorful Career

Superintendent Smith, Youngest Captain in His Regiment in Spanish War, Served in Coal Riots of 1902.

The first of a series of articles to introduce the members of Lower Merion's splendid police force to our readers.

By Robert Moore Cameron.

Superintendent of Police Charles Percival Smith, who succeeded the late James I. Donaghy as chief of the township force, came to Lower Merion from McKees Rocks, Pa., taking up his duties on September 1, 1926. His has been a colorful career which includes service in the Spanish War, in the Pennsylvania coal riots of 1902, five years in the State Police, and a considerable period as the head of a private police organization of a manufacturing company.

Born in Germantown in 1874, Superintendent Smith was educated in the Germantown schools. Always fond of sports and outdoor life, young Smith made quite a name for himself as a basketball, football and baseball player. He was a member of the old Germantown Y. M. C. A. basketball team, which was one of the outstanding court teams of its day.

Ardmore Recollections.

He learned to swim at the old Riverside Park, where the Wissahickon empties into the Schuylkill, and recalls riding over to Ardmore on a bicycle to visit friends. "If it had rained the night before," the Superintendent said, "the pike was a sea of mud, and if it hadn't rained, it was a cloud of dust."

He had not been working long when the Maine disaster forced the country into war with Spain. Smith, who was 24 at the time, and had gained a liking for outdoor military life in the National Guard, looked upon this as his opportunity, and asked his father's permission to enlist. "All right," said the parent, "you've been playing at being a soldier long enough, now go ahead and be one!"

The Youngest Captain.

He received a commission as captain of Company E, 1st Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, which was commanded by the late General Wendell P. Bowman, then Colonel Bowman, of Merion. Smith had the distinction of being the youngest company commander in the regiment. A friendship sprang up between him and the captain of Company H, Frank H. Sykes, now president of the Lower Merion Board of Commissioners, which has lasted to this day.

One of Superintendent Smith's proud possessions, locked safely away in his desk at the Ardmore Station House, is the original Muster-In and Muster-Out rolls of his company.

After he was mustered out of the service, Smith went into the construction business for a while with his brother in New York City. It was not long before he was back in military service, however, serving as an officer in the Pennsylvania National Guard in the coal riots at Hazleton in 1902.

When the late Colonel John C. Groome set about organizing the State Police, Smith was one of the first men chosen to aid him. He served as captain of a troop of State Police for five years.

While on duty on the scene of a labor disturbance in western Pennsylvania Smith attracted the attention of officials of the Pressed Steel Car Company and accepted a position with them as superintendent of police for that corporation in 1909. He set about organizing a private police force to look after the company's property and interests scattered in towns and villages from Pittsburgh to Chicago, and was occupied with this work until he received the offer to come back East as superintendent of the Lower Merion Police Department in 1926.

Superintendent Smith, who is a powerfully-built and active man, gives one the impression of being well able to take care of himself under most any circumstances. "What strikes you as the tougher, Superintendent, war or strike duty?" I asked as we sat smoking our pipes in his office at the Ardmore headquarters. "Well," he said, laughing, "it's six of one and half a dozen of another. I recall one ticklish situation I was in while on strike duty at Mt. Carmel in 1902. I had twenty-two men and we went into the town and found a crowd of about five thousand men, most of them armed with guns and revolvers, and in no pleasant frame of mind. As I wished to avoid bloodshed, we managed to retire to our headquarters, which was in a colliery, with only minor scuffles and got word to Harrisburg. When reinforcements arrived we set about our job of patroling the town.

Strikers' Tricks.

"On another occasion we used a fire hose to get the best of a crowd of strikers. They pulled a good trick on us once. We were riding into a town one evening after dark, when a wire which had been stretched across the road about six feet high yanked me out of my saddle as clean as a whistle and landed me in the street before I knew what had happened."

"How did you happen to get into police work?" I asked the Superintendent. "It was chiefly on account of my infatuation for outdoor life on horseback," was the reply. "And the lack of monotony, the variety and newness of the work has kept me in it ever since," he said.

When the Lower Merion Board of Commissioners sent an invitation to Smith in 1926 to come East as Superintendent of the township police force, he accepted gladly as he has always considered this section his home and his mother was then living in Cynwyd at the time.

Superintendent Smith was married on November 27, 1895, to Miss Margaret A. Figg, a Philadelphia girl. They have two daughters, both married, Mrs. C. R. Anderson, of New York, and Mrs. R. A. Gibbs, of Ardmore.

Parable of the Youthful Adventurer and the Old Tar

Once upon a time the Pennsylvanians built a boat. Knowing that the waters over which they must sail were infested with giant liquor sharks they made their ship as strong as human ingenuity could devise. And the name thereof was SNYDER-ARMSTRONG. Before they had sailed many years the liquor sharks had lashed the boat so furiously that here and there it sprung a leak. There was great confusion among all the people on board. Something must be done.

The time came for the choice of a new captain. There came forth a youthful adventurer named Hemphill and asked the company to select him.

"What will you do with this ship?" the people cried.

And the young adventurer said: "Seeing it is leaking some, I would knock the bottom out of it."

"Alas," they cried, "but the water is full of sharks and how could we hope to escape them?"

"Ah," said the young adventurer, "it will be time enough to think about escaping after we have sent our ship to the bottom."

Then some of the folks on board sought out an old sailor who was in the company. His grizzled countenance told the story of many a battle on the stormy deep. Before the young tyro was born this old codger had battled typhoons and tornadoes. He had sailed on every ocean and had passed through dangers without number. Upon one occasion he had for four years piloted the Ship of State and had come through safely to the honor and credit and good will of all concerned. And the people on board who were deeply troubled said:

"Sir Gilford, seeing the ship has been battered by the sharks and is having trouble, what would you advise?"

And the old tar said, "Out of my experience of forty years in sailing the seas I would say: 'Sail on. If the boat springs a leak caulk it up. But do not desert the ship until a better one is in sight. Let every true sailor on board take his place in the battle against the sharks that are seeking to destroy us'."

And the people went away and considered diligently all the words of the young adventurer and the old sailor and they took a vote as to which of these two should be made commander of their boat. And the people who were shark-minded voted for the young adventurer. But all who were mindful of the women and the children said: "We want the old sailor at the helm once more."

Everybody voted, each man and women according to his or her convictions. So intense was the feeling that nobody on board forgot to cast his or her ballot and the old tar was put in command of the ship and she sailed safely among the sharks and the sharks were not able to hurt the ship.—(By Harry M. Chalfant.)

Main Line Scouts to Join in Anunal Reunion

Tomorrow Montgomery County Boy Scouts will join Delaware County scouts in their annual reunion to be held in Philadelphia. It is sponsored each year by the Councils of those counties, Edward A. Carlson, scout executive. The early morning program will consist of a number of hikes to places of interest in Philadelphia and in the afternoon will be staged the yearly parade of Boy Scouts. Wynnewood Troop, No. 1, winner in the Main Line district of the honor flag for receiving the highest Council rating, will be one of the leaders in the parade.

Paul A. Siple, of Erie, Pa., will speak at 2 P. M. at the Academy of Music and another important feature will be the Eagle Scout ceremony when James Sutton, of Ardmore, and Embry C. Rusker, of Bala-Cynwyd, will take part in the activities Sutton and Rusker are among the Eagle Scouts to be commended.

Women and the Fire Company

With the objects of conducting an annual membership drive for the Narberth Fire Company, and of giving the firemen a yearly supper, the women of the borough have formed an organization to be known as the "Mulieres." In case your Latin is rusty, this means "women."

Meetings of this organization will be held on the first Monday of each month at 2:15. Their object will be to promote sociability and acquaint residents of the borough with the work of the volunteer firemen.

Memberships in the Narberth Fire Company are open to every resident within the district protected by the Narberth Fire Company. The money raised by memberships goes almost entirely towards overhead, payment on apparatus and other necessary expenses of the company.

The annual supper the "Mulieres" propose to give the firemen, and their plans for making the fire house more attractive and homelike, are all to be taken care of by $1 dues from members. In order to carry out these plans successfully a very large membership of women will be necessary, and it is hoped to enlist the support financially, if not actively, of every woman in the Narberth fire district.

Mrs. William Sibley, of 507 Haverford Avenue, is the membership chairman of the Mulieres, and is aided by a large committee. They will be glad to enroll you in the Mulieres' ranks.

This is truly a civic movement and deserves the whole-hearted support of the women of the borough. Those who were active formerly in aiding the firemen will no doubt want to join in this new movement and all others are cordially invited to join.

The next meeting will be held in Elm Hall Monday, November 3, at 2:15 in the upstairs room when chairmen of committees will be announced. The only notice of meetings will be found in "Our Town."

Great Service—Great Needs

An organization which deserves the whole-hearted support of every resident of the Main Line is the Community Health and Civic Association of Ardmore, the annual report of whose president was mailed to many homes in the section this week.

Concerning itself with matters of vital importance to the community such as child and general health, standards of living as revealed through housing conditions, and advocacy of zoning and regional planning, the organization fills a great need in the section.

As Mr. Serrill points out in his report, "greater service continually reveals greater needs" and for this reason the association requires more widespread support.

Its income, as the report also states, comes largely from the Welfare Federation of Philadelphia, of which it is a member agency. Therefore by contributing generously to the Welfare Federation campaign which starts on Monday you will be materially assisting the work of this local organization whose influence is being felt in practically every Main Line town either through its Child Health Centres, its Maternity Service or other features of its work.

Our Police Force

In order that the residents of Lower Merion and Narberth may become more intimately acquainted with their police force this paper begins the publication with this week's issue of a series of biographical articles which when completed will include every member of the Lower Merion Police Department. As is right and proper the opening article in this issue tells you of the life and work of the Superintendent of the department, Charles P. Smith.

Intelligence and physical fitness are two qualities which are demanded of every applicant to the Lower Merion force. Unless a man gives evidence of the former and can prove the latter after a rigid medical inspection, his chances of getting on the force are slim.

Courtesy, another factor that goes into the makeup of the perfect policeman, is recognized at its true value in the Lower Merion force. It has been said that a police policeman is the best advertisement that a town can have. If this is so Lower Merion has some eighty-odd walking advertisements.

New Books

Grace and Wisdom

"Street of the Islands," by Stark Young. Charles Scribner's Sons, $2.50.

REVIEWED BY L. L. CHAPPELL

In autumn I cannot long forget the trees. Their sudden brilliance invades my consciousness and colors my days. In the boughs of the trees the two golds meet—mellow gold of October sun and ruddy gold of turning leaves. How the sunlight on the leaves discovers all their sere fragility, reveals them as travelers toward death! For this is the season of radiant death.

In one of the new books I find again the autumnal theme of radiant death. The book is Stark Young's "Street of the Islands," a collection of stories and sketches marked by rare grace and wisdom.

The six stories are set amidst various scenes. The backgrounds, Spain, Italy, Texas and Louisiana, are alike, only in that each is a sunny land. An impression of warm sunlight flows from the pages of this book. Like interludes of shadow are the five brief sketches, "Felipe," "Miss Sissie," and the rest, exquisite bits to be read and enjoyed, probably to be re-read. But the strength of the collection is the sunlit longer stories.

Of each, the central character stands, lonely and defenseless, at his journey's end. Stark Young presents them as they go to their death, quietly and gallantly as the autumn leaves. These are frail folk—frail by nature or worn down by circumstance. To understand the dignity, the meaning in each life-story, the reader has need of that kind, penetrating light, the author's interpretation.

The first story, "The Land of Juan de Dios," seems to this reviewer a novel and distinguished contribution to the vast literature of mother love. No one could read, unmoved, the account of the long and tedious journey of Dona Remedios to the home of the son, who, as a small child, had been torn from her and who had grown to manhood in faraway lands. It was Dona Remedios' idea that between mother and son "there must be dignity, grace, decent form, respect." These she preserved, though she came to him as a penniless and feeble old woman. Moreover, impoverished, weak and dying, Dona Remedios was yet able to bring to her son a very great gift. The story is really one of triumph.

Mysticism plays faintly about the story called "The Light on the Hills." The narrator was haunted by the memory of a cousin, a woman older than himself. Life had defeated her, consistently kept from her the good that she deserved. Long after her death, Shelton was still troubled by the wish to communicate to Cousin Lucy a word of understanding. He had a sense of her soul lingering near, needing his message. The pain lifted when he saved her young granddaughter from just such a life as had wasted Lucy. This is a scrap of the old South that Stark Young knows well.

The South again, but not so old, is in the story of Beatus Rex, the Louisiana boy whose fault was that, esteeming himself not at all, he valued unduly the other fellow's happiness. Rex died in the convent at Fiesole, a place which Stark Young must love. Exquisitely he has recorded its beauty.

"Campo Santo" is perhaps an essay, perhaps a story. Here, again, a place and its spirit are truly expressed.

The book creates the illusion of blended arts. Having finished the reading, having laid the stories aside for a while, one can scarcely believe that the author here availed himself of no other medium than language. I myself shall always recall "The Passionate Road" as violin music. The brief "Cowboy at the Antique Shop Window" was surely a bit of sculpture, and were there not paintings, many and beautiful?

It is a book to be recommended with enthusiasm; a reflective, civilized book, still and bright, like Indian summer.

Vauclain Reports on Highway Conference

Receives Assurance of No Further Action During Present Administration.

BOOSTS MR. HEMPHILL

Samuel M. Vauclain, of Rosemont, chairman of a special committee which waited upon Governor Fisher to protest against the proposed by-pass highway, reported the results of the expedition at a meeting of the Rosemont Civic Association October 10. The meeting was held in the parish house of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Rosemont.

The committee had little time with the Governor because of a Cabinet meeting which his excellency had overlooked in making the appointment. In conferring with the State Highway Department officials it was discovered an alternate route had been proposed which met with less favor with the delegation than the original one.

In order to make the whole thing perfectly open and above board Mr. Vauclain had invited Colonel Samuel Price Wetherill, Jr., president of the Regional Planning Federation, which is strongly advocating the construction of such a by-pass highway.

When the Main Line delegation finally got audience with Governor Fisher, Colonel Wetherill interrupted Mr. Vauclain's story to present the Regional Planning Federation's view before the Governor. Mr. Vauclain, however, "butted in" on Mr. Wetherill and emphatically told the Governor that the residents of the affected section were unalterably opposed to such a highway.

Assurance was given the delegation by the Governor that no further steps would be taken on the matter during the present administration.

Efforts will be made, Mr. Vauclain said, to have the proposed route taken from the map of the State Highway Department.

With the matter sidetracked for the remainder of Governor Fisher's administration, Mr. Vauclain is optimistic about a favorable settlement when a new Governor takes office.

"I do not know how you people feel about it, but I think the next Governor will be Mr. Hemphill, of West Chester," Mr. Vauclain said.

"I don't think the good people of this State will indorse any form of Bolshevism or Pinchotism, nor will they countenance a campaign of slander such as has been started by Mr. Pinchot and which affects some of the best people in this section of the State."

the time of the disastrous earthquake.

Though no definite explanation of the losses was made, it was indicated that the funds of the tourist agency were depleted because of too low estimates on travel expenses.

Blue Laws Only Check to Sunday Amusements in Township, Board Says

The Pennsylvania Blue Laws of 1794 had an airing at the meeting of the Lower Merion Board of Commissioners on October 15 when a letter was read from the new owner of the Ardmore Recreation Centre asking permission to operate the bowling alleys on Sundays.

There is nothing the Board can do to stop Sunday amusements if they wish to operate except to collect a fine of $4 and costs under the blue laws, it was pointed out. The opinion was expressed by one member of the Board that the people in this section do not favor Sunday movies, golf, bowling, etc.

Brought to the attention of the Board more for expression of opinion by the Police and Fire Committee, it was referred back to them to handle as they have done in the past. "I see no appropriate action that could be taken by this Board," said President Frank H. Sykes.

Scouts Commended For Aid in Broadcast of Finals of Amateur Golf Championship

Eagle Scouts from the Main Line and Bala-Cynwyd were numbered in the group of scouts who assisted in the broadcasting of the finals of the Amateur Golf Championships at the Merion Cricket Club.

The group of Eagle Scouts of the Delaware and Montgomery Counties Council were under the direction of Neighborhood Commissioner C. H. Saurman, Jr., who is also Assistant Scoutmaster of Troop 1, Lansdowne Pa. The Eagle Scouts were T. S. Fetter, Jr., and Henry K. Hicks, of Troop No. 1, Lansdowne; Robert Brown, Troop No. 5, Morristown; Chandler Pitcher, Troop No. 1, Wynnewood; William Macan and John Condon, Troop No. 2, Bala-Cynwyd, and John Mitchell, Troop No. 3, Swarthmore.

The Scouts were on duty throughout the entire day. They assisted the radio engineers during the morning in setting up portables and short wave transmitters, with which it was planned to describe in detail each movement of the play on the 16th, 17th and 18th holes.

As no direct communication lines were available Eagle Scout Fetter was stationed on the roof of the clubhouse to relay messages to his Scout coworkers, stationed at remote points, and thus convey to them signals to inform the radio announcers when to go on the air.

Due to the enormous crowd witnessing the event and also to air conditions which made short-wave transmission practically impossible, it became impracticable to use the portable transmitter to any considerable degree. This gave an even greater opportunity for Scout service and they relayed, with signal flags, the details of play. The signals were received by two Scouts on the top of the clubhouse who, in turn, relayed the messages for broadcast to Paul Douglas, the radio announcer.

The crowd increased hour by hour and it soon became impossible, because of the density about the players, to use the signal flag system successfully. Here the Scouts were again of utmost service and relayed messages on foot from the scene of the play to the announcer and it was thus possible to radio the play by play description. Despite the difficulties, communication was kept open at all times by Commissioner Saurman and K. W. Stowman, Director of Public Relations for Station WCAU who was in charge of the field transmitter.

The Scouts participating in this activity were highly commended by the officials of the broadcasting company. A letter to E. A. Carlson, of Ardmore, Scout Executive of Delaware and Montgomery Counties Council, from the company, said: "Without the assistance of the eight Eagle Scouts we feel that it would have been impossible for us to serve the radio public through the Columbia Broadcasting system with up to the minute reports as to the progress of the match which ended with Bobby Jones the winner. Every boy did his bit and was a willing worker from early morning until late afternoon."

College Building Progresses

Rapid progress is being made by Warren Brothers in the erection of Villanova's new School of Commerce and Finance. The new structure, which will be completed early in February, will contain classrooms with a seating capacity of 820. Administrative offices and an auditorium with a seating capacity of 550. In addition to its fifty-four courses covering most of the technical phases of Commerce and Finance, the school has announced a new branch of studies in education.

Arrests by L. M. Police Total 362 in Month's Time

A total of 362 arrests were made by Lower Merion police during the period of September 10 to October 7, inclusive, according to the report of the Police and Fire Committee of the Board of Commissioners presented on Wednesday, October 15.

In addition, 403 complaints were received and adjusted. Fifty automobile accident cases were taken care of where a written report was necessary. Nine stolen automobiles were recovered and returned to their owners.

Forty-five lodgers were provided with one or more night's lodging in the station house lockup.

School Enrollment Shows Big Increase

The total enrollment in Lower Merion Township schools to date numbers 4816, according to the report of Superintendent S. E. Downs read at the October meeting of the School Board Wednesday the 8th. This represents an increase of 469 students over last year. The Senior High School shows the highest proportional gain with 841, enrolled, an increase of 104 over last year.

In order to avoid congestion in the high schools in the future the Board is contemplating the erection of a combined classroom and administration building on the site of the present tennis courts on the school grounds. By providing facilities in this building for music, art and manual departments, in addition to classrooms, the Board feels that the erection of an additional junior high school may be deferred for several years. Such a step would provide extra room in the two high school buildings by centering all offices, stock rooms and distributing departments in the new building.

Superintendent Downs was authorized by the Board to visit outstanding modern schools this winter, and to submit by April sketches and tentative plans for such a combined building together with definite reasons for each feature recommended for adoption.

Satisfactory progress on the new Penn Wynne elementary school was reported. The completion of this building next summer will prevent overcrowding in the Wynnewood Road School, Mr. Downs pointed out. It will also provide, he said, an additional feeder to the high schools.

Cider made on the estate of the Board's president, William L. Austin, of Rosemont, together with apples and cookies, was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Brookmead Tests 100%

The Department of Agriculture, Harrisburg, reported this week that the Brookmead herd of nearly 100 head of pure-bred Guernsey cattle had again tested 100 per cent. negative to the blood test for abortion. This is a new and important safeguard for the public and only comparatively few herds in the State are accredited under this test.

Brookmead, as early as 1915, held the distinction of being the first herd to be 100 per cent. under the blood test as well as the tuberculin test.

Two Wayne Residents Inherit Heirlooms

Mrs. Nadine C. Prew Ashmead and Maurice C. N. Prew, both of Wayne, are the heirs to many rare books, engravings, sketches and antiques which were included in an inventory of the estate of Walter Cox, president of the Pennsylvania Wire Glass Company who died some time ago. Among the valuable volumes in his library are listed a "History of Pennsylvania," published in 1797; George Catlin's "North American Indians," published in 1841, with 400 full-page engravings, and the "Authentic Historical Memoirs of the Schuylkill Fishing Company of the State in Schuylkill," published in 1830 and valued at $50.

Platinum and diamond of the State in Schuylkill are included, as well as a number of engravings executed by W. Birch in 1800. There are also many pieces of antique furniture, silverware, china and jewelry.

Egyptian Theatre News

With Wallace Beery, Chester Morris and Robert Montgomery among the stars in its capable cast, the thrilling, dramatic "Big House" is concluding its four-day showing at the Egyptian Theatre, Cynwyd, this week-end.

Next Monday and Tuesday the Egyptian's audience will enjoy "The Man from Wyoming," the story of a young engineer who leaves a construction job in Wyoming to join a company of engineers at the front during the war. Gary Cooper in an excellent characterization is aided by June Collyer—society girl ambulance driver—and Regis Toomey.

"Swing High," a novel, dramatic, musical romance of circus life, will play at the Egyptian next Wednesday and Thursday. In staging this production, an entire circus with forty acts was employed in the various ring scenes enacted before an audience of two thousand, attired in the garb of the 1870's. The star cast includes Helen Twelvetrees, Nick Stuart, Sally Starr, Stepin Fetchit, Chester Conklin, Ben Turpin, Daphne Pollard, George Fawcett, Robert Edeson, Bryant Washburn, Fred Scott and John Sheehan.

In "The Sap from Syracuse," coming to the Egyptian next Friday and Saturday, Jack Oakie has his funniest characterization, aided by Ginger Rogers. The play which kept Broadway giggling for months, last season, has been made into an amusing "talkie." As the blundering, bashful youngster who is the butt of all the jokes in Syracuse, Oakie prompts mirth first in his home city, then on shipboard, and finally in a wild mountainous country in the Balkans.

Coming to the Egyptian the week of November 3, when Bala-Cynwyd Girl Scouts are staging a benefit, are Cyril Maude in "Grumpy," Bebe Daniels in "Lawful Larceny" and Robert Montgomery in "Sins of the Children."

Also coming soon are "The Silent Enemy," Indian epic; "Paris Bound," starring Ann Harding, and "Queen High" and "This Man's War."

Narberth Theatre Notes

"Three Faces East," brilliant screen version of a sensational stage hit, is playing at the Narberth Theatre this Friday and Saturday. The story is of a British girl spy in the war, who dares to risk the life of the German spy she loves, rather than let him send a message fatal to the Allied cause. Among the principals in the cast are Eric von Stroheim and Constance Bennett.

An exposition of football tactics by Knute Rockne, Notre Dame coach, called "Flying Feet," is also to play at the Narberth Theatre this week-end, in addition to an "Our Gang" comedy.

At the matinee this Saturday, Rin Tin Tin will star in "Man Hunter," in addition to "Three Faces East," the "Our Gang" Comedy, and the second episode of "Tarzan the Tiger."

Next Thursday, by the way, at a special matinee at 3:45 P. M., "With Byrd at the South Pole" will be shown at its only performance in Narberth The thrilling "talkie" of the great Antarctic Expedition will be given in answer to many requests made of the theatre management.

On Monday and Tuesday of next week the Narberth playhouse will present "The Office Wife," an absorbing tale of Lewis Stone, as president of a large publishing firm, and his secretary—Dorothy Mackaill. Betty Compson in the thrilling "Czar of Broadway" will engross Narberth audiences on Wednesday and Thursday. And on Friday and Saturday "The Big House" will present its tale of prison life and of a sensational riot.

An unusually fine grade of entertainment is promised for the month of November, which will be celebrated as the Narberth Theatre's third anniversary.

Attack Beetle Grubs Now to Save Lawns in Spring

The Indian summer days of October inspire gardening enthusiasts to plan for better, if not bigger, gardens next spring. For fall is the time to do the foundation work for the garden. Not only in planning new color schemes and grouping effects on paper, but the preparatory work of all sorts that will make the garden a success next year should be done now.

An important point we must not overlook is that insidious pest, the Japanese beetle. What! Still the beetle! Why not forget him until the spring at least?

But that is not the way at all, according to the advice of Richard Schwoebel, well-known Ardmore landscape architect. According to this expert, the time to get the beetle is right now when the grub beetle is feeding upon the roots of the grass, from two or four inches under the surface of the lawn.

The total life cycle of the Japanese beetle is one year, Mr. Schwoebel explained, and the greater part of the time is spent in the soil, first as an egg, then a larva or grub. When the flying time arrives the beetle is almost at the end of its existence, so that is the reason that it is important work now to stamp out the grub.

Later in the year the grub bores deeper into the ground and when everybody is busy doing their Christmas shopping the grub is thoroughly entrenched to spend the rest of the winter. Then in March and continuing until the time of emergencies in the summer, the beetle grub is again close to the surface and again feeding upon the live roots of the grass.

"The United States Department of Agriculture after years of experimentation," says Mr. Schwoeble, "have recommended the application of powdered lead arsenate mixed with a heavier material such as sand or loam as the most successful method of combating the beetle grub. It has been found that such applications are effective for a period of two to three years. It is an erroneous impression that the arsenate of lead used for the Japanese beetle would harm either the birds or the small animals

"The main thing to be watched," continued Mr. Schwoebel, "is that some of the commercial fertilizers if used with arsenate of lead react against one another and in this way reduce the effectiveness of both. Therefore it is always well to have expert advice as to the proper fertilizer to use."

Just like lightning one can never tell when and where the beetle is going to strike next. So don't run the risk of having these unwelcome winter boarders burrowing under your lawn this winter, but get after them now.

Time Out

By Tommy Macklin.

Several local football enthusiasts took the short motor trip to Easton Saturday to see the Penn State-Lafayette game. Alan Cook, of Narberth, captain of the Lower Merion football and basketball teams three years ago, undertook three placements during the game, but the high wind which was blowing across the field blew them wide of the uprights each time. One of his attempts was for fifty yards, and it carried by the goal posts with sufficient height, but did not have the right aim. Another tough break for Alan.

The reports of the game show that Cook's work at tackle for the Lafayette team was one of the main reasons why the Penn State offense could not get started.

"Day" D'Amora, last year's star end on the Maroon team at Lower Merion, played a wonderful game for Peirce School Saturday. "Day" broke up four passes launched by George School and was quite a nuisance to the Prep School boys from up-State.

"Perk" Scott played part of the same game in the Peirce backfield. "Perk" is likely to be permanent fullback for the Business School before many more games.

We were pleased to note the victory scored by Villanova College on Saturday against a strong team from Boston College. It took plenty of fight and skill to down the Irish from Boston and Sthuldreher's forward passing attack did the trick. "Biff" Gardner, fullback, and Jimmy McLaughlin, signal caller, undertook the difficult task of carrying the ball across for a touchdown, and they did it properly in the third period, with "Biff" taking Jimmy's pass and trotting down the field for a score.

Friends' Central School of Overbrook is leading the Interacademic League with three victories and no defeats. This is the first year since the school moved to Overbrook that they have had a good chance to gain the championship. With the team working smoothly on all cylinders, it looks very much like league leadership for Coach Doug Crate and his boys.

The Blue and Gray of Friends' Central defeated Episcopal last Friday, 20 to 0. Such happenings as that might be called news, and certainly a few bonfires should have been lit. That is the first league defeat suffered by Episcopal in three years, and the first time we recollect that a Friends' Central team has done the trick.

Johnny Pennypacker, captain of the Maroon team at Lower Merion, looked like a wonder in the backfield against Haverford last Saturday. Playing in the halfback position for the first time in his life, Johnny looked perfectly at home. He took the ball on numerous occasions for substantial gains, and he played nicely on defense.

Radnor High broke into the win column over the week-end by defeating the light team from Bryn Athyn Academy, 20 to 13.

Coach Adam, when asked for a statement after the Haverford game, said: "That stand made by our team on the five-yard line after Rockwell's fumble was a sight for sore eyes. We had given them 90 yards on three fumbles and then they couldn't score. I was disappointed on the way the backs fumbled and because of the numerous penalties which were inflicted against us, but in spite of the breaks our boys were alert enough to come through. Now for Lansdowne."

Friends' Central Ends Episcopal Streak

Loom As Interac Champions As Result of 20-0 Victory.

A new champion of the Interacademic League looms as the result of the 20-0 victory scored by Friends' Central over Episcopal Academy, three-time winner, at the Episcopal field last Friday. It also brought to an end the Churchmen's twenty-four game winning streak.

Friends' Central's first two victories over Chestnut Hill Academy and Haverford School indicated that the boys coached by Douglas Crate, former Lafayette star, and Folwell Scull, Penn's brilliant end, would have to be reckoned with, but the convincing win over the Churchmen stamps them as virtually the strongest team in the Interac League.

The Friends' first touchdown was made by Jimmy Funke, former Abington High star, whose line plunging throughout the game was a thorn in Episcopal's side. The second score came about as the result of a seventy-five-yard run by Blaker in the third period. Robertshaw accounted for the third score in the fourth period when he intercepted an Episcopal pass and ran thirty-five yards across the goal line.

The outcome was never in doubt after the first half when Episcopal had two chances to score, but was held for downs, lacking the power to outrush their heavy opponents.

Good material is plentiful on the Friends' Central team. In the backfield there is Quinlan from Haverford High, Blaker from Camden High, White from Lansdowne and Jim Funke, Abington's star of the past two years. To aid them are Brown and Sullivan, two fine halfbacks.

On the line Jack Hinkle at left end and Ben Castree at tackle are boys who came over from Overbrook High. Frank Bayshore, of Lansdowne, takes care of the other tackle with Jack Earle alongside him at guard. George Hopkins at right guard with Ben Robertshaw, of Haverford High, at centre and Len Baker, from New Jersey, at right end completes a first-class line with plenty of power and weight.

Maroon Junior High Rips Up Haverford, 34-0

The Orange team of L. M. Junior High School won another game last Thursday when the hefty reserves of Haverford School invaded the sacred precincts of Ardmore and went back home with a better knowledge of the game of football. Coach Dick Mattis sent his team in the field in a fighting mood, and they turned the visitors back with a smashing attack which netted them five touchdowns and four extra points. Haverford was unable to score during the game, and they were also unable to solve Mattis' varied attack which was a mixture of triple passes, cross bucks and end runs, with an occasional forward which never failed to be effective.

The playing of Captain Harvey Buek, Mike Zengel and Mike Icchavelli enabled the team to run up so large a score. Icchavelli's work at end, where he stopped enemy runners time after time before they could get started, was defensively perfect. The short speedster also took a short pass and outran the field fifty yards for a touchdown.

Today the Junior High entertains West Chester, the only suburban team with a good chance to defeat the Orange for the championship. Last season the two teams battled to a scoreless deadlock, although the locals pierced the Chester Countians' five-yard line thrice during the matinee. The game starts at 3:30 o'clock.

Lower Merion's Touchdown Enough to Beat Haverford

By Tommy Macklin

should have scored more points than they did. The dozen or more first downs compiled by the rushing backfield of the Maroons proved conclusively that Adam has a powerful combination. The three first downs gathered together during the game by Coach Cornog's hirelings also prove that Lower Merion has a marvelous line. The Haverford following may be well pleased with the Red and Gold for the team's fighting qualities and the scrappy spirit which held so powerful a combination to such a low score.

On the other hand, credit may be thrown at Coach Adam in large quantities, for that man certainly knows how to build a scientific defense. His men play smart football all the time. The lateral pass, which Haverford had used successfully in the early games of the season for gains was covered like a wagon when Bradford intercepted it for the scoring play. Instead of the end going in and attacking the ball carrier, he covered the wide man who did not carry the ball, and left the ball toter to the tackle and the men who back up the line. It works, as such defensive tactics have worked in the past for the team. Many wins in the past few years have come to Lower Merion due to the marvelous ability of the players to turn forward-passing plays launched by the opponents into boomerangs which they hurled back in the direction of the enemy goal line.

Strange to relate, and doubtless it will surprise many, the greatest gains made by the Maroon team were through Captain DiJoseph's position in the line. The doughty leader of the Haverfordians shifted continually along his line and the Main Liners took advantage of his shifting tactics to run their off-tackle plays through his position. He made many tackles, but only after Lower Merion had gained yardage.

"Horsey" Horton is the Haverford team. There is a football player. He can run the ball, kick beautifully and pass with the best of high school players. He should go far in the sport.

Lower Merion's fine march from their own five-yard line to the Haverford five-yard line in three minutes during the first period was an epic of offensive football but must remain one of the forgotten things due to the fumble which followed.

The team is in good shape for the Lansdowne game tomorrow, barring one or two slight injuries which should not hinder the playing of the team to any great degree.

L. M. Scrubs Down Haverford Seconds, 9-6

Coaches James Davis and Lyman Suloff followed in the footsteps of Coach Albert Adam when they sent their charges against Haverford High School's second-string players Monday afternoon at Ardmore. The Lower Merion scrubs rushed the visitors down the field for a 9-to-6 win.

Harry Zendell scored the winning touchdown when he went through the center of the line from the five-yard chalk mark. Harry Lott, tennis star and swell tackle, kicked the extra point from placement. A safety was scored in the third period when a Haverford back was downed behind the line of scrimmage.

This is the second victory for Davis' squad as they won at Downingtown two weeks ago.

Library's Circulation Still on Increase

"These are the statistics, but figures alone give only an idea of the work that has been done. During the past year the library has followed its usual policy of co-operating with the schools by providing as far as possible the books needed by the students, sometimes sending to the State Library at Harrisburg for the books required. The teachers of the Lower Merion High School have been most appreciative of the help that has been given their pupils in their reference work. A picture collection has been started in the hope of supplying the teachers with the pictures that they so often need, and many gifts of pictures have been received, but the collection grows slowly, as the work of getting the pictures ready to mount, mounting them, assigning subject headings, and cataloging them so that they may circulate requires a great deal of time.

"During the summer vacation we again had the Around the World Book Tour. The interest shown by the children in the trip around the world by means of books was very encouraging. The books read were descriptive of child life in all parts of the globe. From thirteen to seventeen books were read, according to grade. Forty-one children finished the trip. Forty-six read twelve books. The Parent-Teachers' Association is giving a prize to each of the three children who have done the best work, and the library is giving a certificate to every child who has completed the work.

"A Story Hour was held every week until July 15, when it was discontinued until October 5. The attendance ranged from twenty on stormy days in winter to seventy-five in the spring and summer. These are some of the most interesting things we have done in our work with the children.

"In July and August a group of ladies met in the library every two weeks to discuss books. These meetings were organized by Mrs. Robert F. Wood, and were well attended and thoroughly enjoyed. Reviews of new books and sketches of the lives of the authors were given, and extracts from poems and plays were read.

"Last April the patrons of the library enjoyed an art exhibit, when Miss Margery Cowin, a talented artist of Narberth, exhibited her paintings and sketches in the library for several weeks. This pleasure, too, was made possible through the efforts of Mrs. Wood.

"In all that has been done, the aim has been to make the library the centre of the community's intellectual life."

MARY B. CHURCH,
Librarian.

'The Adams Family' One of Library's New Books

Among the books added to the Narberth Community Library during the last few months, "The Adams Family," by James Truslow Adams, stands out as assured of permanent value.

Mr. Adams, a historian of sound ability, has chosen to study this family, to which he is not akin in spite of the identity of name, because it is the only one which has given to the United States four successive generations of men, not merely eminent in their chosen fields, but of distinctive service to their country. The Adams have never been popular idols, never democratic, never self-advertising; on the other hand, with all their individualism, they have never spared effort or shirked sacrifice when called to serve.

The narrative of the overlapping lives of these men is simply told, not with the fulsomeness of early nineteenth century biographers, nor with the spiced cynicism of a contemporary school. It is a book that deserves to be "chewed and digested."

Philadelphia Electric Opens Refinished Offices

Today and tomorrow will mark the formal opening of the remodeled and redecorated Main Line office of the Philadelphia Electric Company at 5 East Lancaster Avenue, Ardmore.

An entire new layout with greater departmentalization and every possible convenience for the comfort of customers has been made. Additional office space has been provided by taking over all the space in the old Merion Title Building upstairs over the Geuting store.

Among the innovations are a customers' contact department on the second floor and a ladies' rest room on the third floor. On the first floor opposite the cashiers' cages, which have the appearance of a very modern bank, are desks, tables and chairs for the convenience of customers.

Indirect lighting of the most modern type has been installed throughout the street floor and the cream-colored walls throughout reflect light and airiness.

Special demonstrations of food-making will take place on the main floor today and tomorrow from 2 to 10 P. M. Both the demonstration floor and the offices will be open for inspection this evening and tomorrow evening.

Gospels of Matthew and Luke Subject of Forum

The Gospels of Matthew and Luke were the subject of study and discussion at the meeting of the Forum which was held last Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eberhardt Mueller on Essex Avenue, under the leadership of the Rev. Robert E. Keighton. The discussion revealed to the Forum group what is well known to all modern students of the subject, that the Gospel of Matthew as we now have it was compiled by a Christian Jew for Jews and was much concerned with indicating beyond a reasonable question of doubt that the birth, ministry and death of Jesus were a fulfillment of Jewish prophesies and became, therefore, a logical and acceptable development of the orthodox Jewish religion.

It appeared that the Gospel of Luke had a very different point of view and aim. It apparently is the work of a cultured Gentile whose object was to interpret the significance of Jesus and His teachings to the entire world. It became quite clear from the manner in which these two writers had compiled, edited and interpreted the material which was available to them in the Gospel of Mark that their viewpoint and beliefs influenced them in what they included, what they omitted and what interpretation they placed on it.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kaeber, corner of South Narberth and Chestnut Avenues, next Thursday evening, the 30th, at 8 o'clock. The Fourth Gospel will be the subject of that meeting and those who are planning to attend would do well to read it in advance.

It is necessary to add that while the attendance at the Forum meetings this season has shown an interesting and valuable increase in numbers, there seems to be a tendency to arrive late which delays the opening and limits the amount of time available for the discussion, as it is usually the plan to end the meetings at 10 o'clock. A prompt beginning at eight is therefore necessary. These meetings are open to all who care to attend and there is no qualification for joining the circle except a sincere interest in the subject which, this year, is the life of Jesus.

Hallowe'en

A quartered moon peers down through frost-seared leaves,
That softly rattle in the chill October
breeze;
Her mellow glow makes shadows in the night,
Which dance with forms of elf, or gnome, or sprite.
O'erhead outlined against the cloud-swept gloom
There rides the silent witch upon her broom,
While hovering near, its spectral wings
outspread,
A monstrous bat glares down with eyes of red.

The children with their pumpkin-faces
lit,
Play they are spooks or ghosts as on they flit;
The streets are full of dashing roust-
abouts,
And echo with their youthful, vibrant shouts.
They in their wise and egotistic way
Think devils, spirits, ghosts and such are play,
But years have tuned our ear to catch the call
That rustling comes from Spirits of the Fall.

Tours Flop Involves Main Line Girls

Stranded Abroad by Failure of Norristown Woman's Travel Agency.

Four Main Liners of social prominence have had more than the ordinary thrills of travel abroad when the failure of the travel agency which had booked their trip left them stranded without hotel accommodations or funds home. Mrs. Frank Tenney and her daughter, Miss Margaret Tenney, of Haverford; Miss Sydney W. Ffoulkes, daughter of Mrs. Sydney Wynne Ffoulkes, of Bryn Mawr, and Miss Elizabeth Converse, daughter of Mrs. Bernard T. Converse, of Rosemont, had an unpleasant shock when they discovered that the Taggart Tours Company, of Norristown, had become bankrupt. This company, conducted by Miss Anna G. Taggart, who has been twenty-five years in the business, failed for $121,000. The bankruptcy hearing held at Norristown on Tuesday showed that the liability of the company was $137,000 and assets were $16,000.

It also developed at the hearing that one of the largest known individual claims had been filed in behalf of Miss Margaret T. Saunders, of Haverford Gables, Haverford, who is a creditor for $11,305. Another claim for $3820 was filed by Mrs. T. Taylor Shannon, of Malvern.

Among the 110 creditors listed were a number of school teachers who were also stranded abroad and were forced to cable home to friends and relatives for funds in order to return. Most of these tourists were also in Italy at the time of the disastrous earthquake.

Friendliness, neighborliness, co-operation—this community can make good use of as much of them as you have.

Community of Rose Valley, Smallest Borough in U. S., Sets Face Against 'Progress'

The smallest borough in the United States, where there is no public school; where property owners are forbidden to lay sidewalks in front of their property; and where the borough council is composed of very wealthy men, exists in neighboring Delaware County.

Rose Valley, three miles from Chester, with its population of 300 and its background of culture and art, is probably one of the most unique, as well as one of the most beautiful settlements in this State.

The colored chauffeur of one of the borough's wealthiest residents, the latter burgess, is the constable and as such represents the majesty of the law in the town. Stores are absolutely forbidden, paved streets are banned, and for many years the taxes collected have remained in a bank unused.

This modern Utopia was founded as a single tax colony in 1901 by William Price and Frank Stephens, but after several years a difference in opinion regarding the management of the colony led to Stephens' withdrawal. He later went to Arden, Del., and there founded a single-tax colony and carried out his own ideas.

Price, however, remained, and Rose Valley soon became a colony of painters, sculptors and other devotees of the arts. Two abandoned mills, each almost 200 years old, became the rendezvous for the Rose Valley Folks, as they call themselves, and meetings, plays and social gatherings were held nightly in the old stone mills.

One day, several years later, Jasper Deeter, a well-known actor, passed through the quaint settlement, and was struck by the beauty of one of the mills, and the idea of producing plays, with artistic rather than mercenary success in view, became imbedded in his mind.

With nine dollars in his pocket and countless ideas in his mind, Deeter started the Hedgerow Repertory Group, and in 1923 the first plays were presented to an audience consisting mainly of Philadelphia art lovers and residents of the Valley. The company has continued successfully since that time, until today it is known throughout the country, and has numbered Ann Harding, Emerson Tracy, Eva Le Gallienne and Paul Robeson amongst its players.

The theatre is perhaps the outstanding feature of Rose Valley today, and the colony has gradually grown up around it, attracting numerous artists who now make the place their home.

In their efforts to retain the rustic atmosphere, the borough council of Rose Valley banned sidewalks, businesses of any description and even paved streets. There is no public school within the borough limits, the children attending the Wallingford School. When the residents wish to attend church, they also have to leave the borough.

Arthur Rich, colored chauffeur for Maurice Bower Saul, millionaire attorney and burgess of the borough, is constable and the only law-enforcing officer in the borough. What Rich does when he makes an arrest is problematical for there is no magistrate to sentence his prisoner.

The residents emphatically state that they have no wish to modernize the borough, wishing to retain the quiet, peaceful surroundings which make the place one of the most unique of Philadelphia suburbs.

Rosemont Gentry Protest Against Sewer Thru Estates

Protests were lodged with the Lower Merion Board of Commissioners by several large property owners in Rosemont against the construction of a sewer which would run across their properties.

Those who appeared and spoke in protest against the sewer were Mrs. Henry Ellsion, John M. Denison and John Russell, Jr., who appeared on behalf of William L. Austin.

The ordinance calling for the construction of this sewer was adopted following a discussion by the commission. The proposed sewer will serve the section bounded by Old Gulph Road, Roberts and Airedale Roads, the Pennsylvania Railroad and County Line Road and Spring Mill Road.

There are quite a number of small property owners in this section in addition to Rosemont College which would be served by the sewer, A. D. Warnock pointed out. "I do not see why we should not help the majority of the people in the section. The large estate owners can have their cesspools on their properties if they wish, but the small property owners cannot."

A resolution was adopted by the Board approving of co-operation between the Township Highway Department and the City of Philadelphia in the widening of City Line at the bridge over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at the Bala Station.

Permission will be sought from the State to relocate the channel of River Road. The contract for the paving has been awarded to the Suburban Construction Company, but awaits the State's approval.

Rooms in the primary building are taking on a gayer atmosphere with the painting of tables and chairs for library corners, the hanging of draperies which harmonize with the cheerful colors, and the appearance of pupils' work on the walls.

The first six-week period came to an end last Friday, October 17, and report cards will be given to pupils today. Parents are asked to read carefully the material found on the cards.

There has been a lull in football at the school recently due to ineligibility of several boys. All participants must have passing grades scholastically. The sixth and seventh grade boys have been organized into separate soccer leagues. At the end of the season the winning teams of each league will play off to determine the champion. The standing to date:

SEVENTH GRADE

Paul James	2	3	0
Anthony Spinelli	1	1	2
Patsy Mariani	1	3	1

SIXTH GRADE

Walter Weidleman	4	0
Paul Tapp	3	1
Joe Casey	1	4
James Snyder	1	4

The girls of the sixth and seventh grades are busily engaged in learning the fine points of hockey.

The Junior Red Cross drive which began on Monday, October 6, netted the following returns, given by rooms: Grade 1—Miss McAuliffe, 71c; Miss Enion, $2.10; grade 2—Miss Eckfeldt, 56c; Miss Bishop, $2.11; grade 3—Miss Cully, $2.95; Miss Worst, 79c; grade 4—Miss Houk, $2.20; Miss Postelle, 68c; grade 5—Miss Dale, $2.75; Miss Miller, $1.78; grade 6—Mrs. Brenner, $1.74; Mr. Kline, 97c; grade 7—Miss Hoover, $1.50 100%; Mr. Wetherall, $2.30, 100%; kindergarten, Miss Williams, $2.86. A campaign to boost the school banking system has resulted in a considerable increase in number of pupils banking as well as money banked. The aim is to have most of the pupils save regularly, banking weekly.

The goal is 100% of pupils banking. Results to date:

	Pct.	Amount
September 24	26	$90.50
October 1	[illegible]	99.20
October 8	[illegible]	125.15

The school has risen from last place in a group of twelve neighboring schools to eighth.

Auditorium periods have been arranged for grades 4, 5, 6 and 7. The periods are arranged for every two weeks, at 12:40 Thursday afternoon. The programs will consist of group singing, activities worked out during classroom procedure, special music and reading numbers, talks by outside persons, holiday programs, etc. Miss Hoak's fourth grade, section two, started the activity on Thursday, October 9, by presenting an interesting Columbus Day program.

The following programs have been planned:

November 6—Boy Week program, Mrs. Postelle's fourth grade, section 1.

November 20—Thanksgiving program, Miss Willin's fifth grade, section 1.

December 4—History program, Mrs. Brennen's history classes.

December 18—Christmas program, Miss Hoover's Home Room.

January 8—Illustrated lecture, Miss Hanley, on "Byrd at the South Pole."

Parents and friends are invited to come to the school at any time and enjoy these programs with the pupils. The programs are not elaborate, but rather are the result of classroom work, insofar as correlation is possible.

Discuss Regional Planning

Discussions on the proposals and accomplishments of the New York Regional Plan, the Washington Regional Plan and the Philadelphia Tri-State Regional Plan were heard at the annual convention banquet of the American Civic Association held at the Bellevue-Stratford on Wednesday evening. Among the speakers were Colonel Samuel Price Wetherill, Jr., of Haverford, president of the Regional Planning Federation of the Philadelphia Tri-State district. The Community Health and Civic Association of Ardmore was one of the organizations acting as host to the American Civic Association.

Dr. Andrew Mutch Succeeds Dr. A. L. Dewees As Chairman of Community Health Committee

At the October meeting of the Health Committee, Community Health and Civic Association of Ardmore, the resignation of Dr. A. L. Dewees, chairman, was accepted with regret and the organization voiced its appreciation for his years of faithful service and leadership under which the Health Service has shown continuous growth and has become a vital factor in the life of the community. Dr. Dewees has been actively connected with the organization since 1917.

Announcement of the appointment of the Rev. Andrew Mutch, D. D., to succeed Dr. Dewees was made by William J. Serrill, president of the association, and received with enthusiasm. Dr. Mutch has served the organization for years as an officer, also on the Health Committee and is familiar with its policies and activities. A year of increasing service to the committee is foreseen.

Mrs. R. F. Tuil introduced Miss Evaline Davis from the national organization for Public Health Nursing, who spoke on the "Responsibilities of Board Members of Nursing Organizations."

In giving the director's report of the Health Service for the past four months, Miss Rose Ehrenfeld praised the volunteer workers for their constancy of service this summer at the Child Health Centres which showed a decided increase in attendance over that of last summer; also reported 7116 visits made by the staff nurses and an increased demand for maternity service particularly the "delivery service," which was undertaken at the suggestion of the Medical Advisory Committee.

Staff nurses assisted at the Red Cross First Aid Station, Merion Golf Club, each day during the national amateur golf tournament; sixty-one emergencies received attention.

Three Main Line Gardens Win Medals For Beauty

The Pennsylvania Horticultural Society on Saturday announced its fall awards to the outstanding gardens in the vicinity. The awards recommended by the garden committee after visiting many gardens and giving careful consideration to the matter are as follows:

A gold medal to Mr. and Mrs. J. Franklin McFadden, Radnor Valley Farm, Rosemont, for their estate of surprising beauty and charm. Three distinct seasons of bloom—the flowering fruits, the pink and white dogwoods and the delphinium with the climbing roses—testify to the skill and taste of the owners.

A silver medal to Mr. and Mrs. John Barnes Townsend for their charming place, "Montrose," at Radnor, in which the landscaping and the uses of the vistas and views are deserving of admiration.

A silver medal to Mr. and Mrs. George W. Elkins, of "Chelten House," Elkins Park, for their well-rounded estate, including the most exquisite of gardens, whose coloring and design merit unqualified praise.

A silver medal to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Sears, of Ardmore, for a garden of outstanding beauty, both as to design, plant material and coloring introducing that most elusive of qualities, "Atmosphere."

Freezing Weather Here

The first freezing temperatures of the season were reported by Main Line Weather Observer Charles Decker for last Sunday and Monday. On Sunday the mercury dropped to 30 and on Monday it hit 31. Last Friday a temperature of 77 was recorded.

Rose Tree's Final Day Furnishes Good Races

Justa Farm Stables continued its winning streak on the third and final day of the Rose Tree Race Hunt last Saturday. In the first race for the Media plate, Mud, ridden by Dougherty, came in first with Sun Meddler second. Both horses were Justa Farm entries.

Galloping Souvenir, owned and ridden by Mr. Morris Hacker Dixon, went out ahead at the start of the second event, the Armead Cup Steeplechase, and never was headed, with Sport Royal in second place and Louis d'Or third.

The Castle Rock handicap was won by The Tattler, Mr. J. G. Leiper, Jr., with Hobcaw, Mr. M. H. Dixon second and Handy, Mr. J. Hamilton, third. The fourth brush for the Evans Rock plate was won by Charloteer, the Foxcatcher Farm entry which ran such a spectacular race in the last event on Wednesday's card. The fifth affair, the Rose Valley plate, a steeplechase, went to Giant Stride, with Rollicking Princess second and Gigolo third.

Montgomery County may well be proud of the new horse racing oval which the Montgomery County Agricultural Association expects to have completed at Hatfield in time for the 1931 season. Large additions will be made to the grandstands which when completed will accommodate about 2000 persons.

Another improvement will be a new judges' stand which will have three levels: the lower tier for the starter, the second for the timer and the upper stand for the judges and clerks.

Mrs. Bok's Gift

Mrs. Edward Bok, of Merion, has just given $30,000 towards the Lafayette centennial fund. This announcement was made last week by the Lafayette College Board of Trustees. The gift was unrestricted and may be used for any purpose the college may desire.

School Superintendent's Home Damaged by Fire

The home of S. Edgar Downs, superintendent of the Lower Merion township schools, at 115 Linwood Avenue, Ardmore, was damaged by fire at 10 A. M. on Monday, when sparks from the chimney ignited the shingle roof.

Mr. Downs was in his office at the Lower Merion High School at the time, and rushed home when notified by his wife and daughter, Gertrude. The Merion Fire Company of Ardmore put out the fire in forty-five minutes assisted by the Bryn Mawr Fire Company.

Part of the roof and the ceiling of a third floor room were damaged by the flames, while smoke and water caused damage in other parts of the house.

Children's Aid Society Helps Baby Marie

Marie is a tiny baby, just about two months old and merry and blue-eyed. Her mother and father have worked hard to exist, but illness and unemployment brought them to desperate straits. They could no longer keep their little home going. The tiny daughter, whom they adored, must have sunshine and fresh air and a goodly supply of milk. In despair they turned to the Children's Aid Society of Montgomery County, which is a member of the Philadelphia Welfare Federation.

With the help and advice of one of the staff visitors, the mother was given the necessary medical care and little Marie was placed boarding with kindly foster parents, while her own mother was recovering her health. The father has gotten a position at service and is contributing to the baby's support.

A home of their own is the great ambition which animates these parents and gives them courage to plan for the time when their little family can be reunited.

Christian Science Topic

"Probation After Death" is the subject of the lesson-sermon to be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, October 26. The Golden Text is, "It shall be said in that day, Lo, this is our God; we have waited for Him, and He will save us: this is the Lord; we have waited for Him, we will be glad and rejoice in His salvation" (Isaiah 25:9).

Among the citations from the Bible is the following: "If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable" (I Corinthians 15:19).

The lesson-sermon also includes passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy one of which reads: "Life is the origin and ultimate of man, never attainable through death, but gained by walking in the pathway of Truth both before and after that which is called death" (p. 487).

Speaks on Health Education

Health education as taught at Friends' Central School was the topic Tuesday of Douglas W. Crate, speaking to local Rotarians. He was introduced by Dr. Barclay L. Jones, headmaster of the school.

Substitution of systematic courses in health topics for much of the formal gym work was explained by Mr. Crate. Beginning with the seventh gade an effort is made to establish a foundation of health habits, followed up each year by practical study shorn of technical terms.

Text books are used, together with modern demonstrations of first aid. The study of occupational diseases is stressed.

Football Films Here

The commencement of Knute Rockne's series of football "talkies," scheduled to begin at the Egyptian Theatre two weeks ago, was unavoidably delayed. The first gridiron exhibition, featuring noted teams, including Notre Dame, has been set for Cynwyd's playhouse for this week-end. Other films, illustrating famous plays and games, will show each week-end throughout the football season.

Where? At the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Narberth. When? On October 29, 1930. A good time is being planned for every one who attends, so don't YOU forget to be there. But when you come be sure you are masked or you will be barred from this party which is being given by the Senior Luther League.

"Christians and Sunday"

Does Regulation Regulate?

At the meeting of the Men's Class of the Presbyterian Sunday School this Sunday Professor D. E. MacCormick will talk on Temperance, the subject of the Sunday School lesson. Prior to the session of this class Professor MacCormick will talk briefly to the entire Sunday School on the same topic. For some years Prof. MacCormick, who is connected with Penn Charter School, has made a careful study of this subject, has gathered much information and valuable data pertinent to this most important question of today. The men who have heard him before will want to hear him again; those who have not heard Prof. MacCormick's convincing arguments on this question should attend the meeting Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. No, this is not a political meeting.
